

2020 Back to School Special Edition

The First 10 Days of

Morning Meetings

Purposeful and Engaging Plans
in Response to COVID-19

Responsive Classroom®

Dear Fellow Educators,

2020 has been a year that none of us will ever forget. The impact of COVID-19, along with the demand for equity, diversity, and inclusion stemming from the murder of George Floyd, can be felt from coast to coast. This resource is the Center for Responsive Schools' response to the numerous requests from teachers across the country and around the globe for support in returning to school during these unprecedented times.

As students and teachers start the 2020-2021 school year, this opening of schools will be vastly different from any other school year. Some schools will be returning to all in-person learning, some will be using remote learning models, and some will be using a hybrid of the two. There is a mixture of anxiety and excitement among students, parents, teachers, and administrators. As we return, we want every student to feel welcomed, seen, accepted, and supported.

This is a resource by teachers for teachers. Educators from all over the United States answered CRS' call for ideas, strategies, and tips for the return to school. The contributors specifically designed the first ten days of Morning Meeting (for kindergarten through sixth grade) and Responsive Advisory Meeting (for sixth through eighth grade) to help reconnect and build positive learning communities, with both social distancing and virtual learning in mind.

Whether your school year starts in person, on a screen, or both, may this resource help you bring hope and joy to your students and your schools at a time when connection and community are more important than ever.

Sincerely,
Center for Responsive Schools

Morning Meeting

Introduction

The Responsive Classroom practice of Morning Meeting provides students with a safe and predictable environment in which to grow and connect socially, emotionally, and academically. As students return to school in the fall, whether virtually or in spaces that have been transformed to allow for social distancing, this practice remains a key tool in supporting students as they navigate the unknowns of the school year. As we embark on this new challenge, we want to keep the goals of Morning Meeting alive while adapting in response to our current needs.

Morning Meeting (K–6)

Morning Meeting allows for a predictable time for students and teachers alike to build community in the midst of uncertainty.

Goals of Morning Meeting

- To set a tone for respectful and engaged learning in a climate of trust
- To create the positive power of community by fulfilling students' needs to belong, to feel significant, and to have fun
- To model and practice social and emotional skills
- To merge social, emotional, and academic learning

Week 1 Goals:

- Establish predictability and a sense of safety
- Create a sense of belonging and significance for students
- Encourage and share experiences and connections to create a welcoming and inclusive environment

Week 2 Goals:

- Continue to build and foster connections and a sense of safety
- Strengthen and support established relationships
- Nurture the positive community through building a continued repertoire of shared experiences

Morning Meeting Considerations

You will need to adapt Morning Meeting to fit your school's safety guidelines, space constraints, and combination of in-person and virtual learning. As you make necessary modifications, we offer the same advice that we offer teachers who have time constraints: focus on your goals and work with the structures you have in place.

- Some teachers may not be able to achieve a circle for Morning Meeting given social distancing precautions and space constraints in classrooms. We continue to use the word "circle" in the pages that follow as it is the ideal for Morning Meetings. However, you can think of "circle" as representing an order to follow during your meeting. Whether meeting in person or virtually, it can be helpful to predetermine the order for your circle and post it for all to see, using pictures as students learn names. If you are not able to physically be in a circle, you can alter any original activity directions to fit your particular classroom situation.
- In many cases, a partner share is recommended. To form partners in person, pair up students with the person seated closest to them. As students learn to navigate the space, maintain a six-foot distance, and speak with a mask, they can move to stand with different partners in the room. Online partnerships can be created by posting a list of partners for students to chat with or pairing students together in breakout rooms. If a breakout function is not available, an "around-the-screen" sharing can be substituted for a partner chat.

Considerations for Social Distancing

In the midst of our world's pandemic, having the opportunity to gather with students in person can be rewarding and can present unique challenges as you seek to meet requirements to keep students and adults safe. In implementing Morning Meeting to allow for social distancing and other safety measures, here are a few things to consider:

- Keep the focus on the goals for Morning Meeting. A Morning Meeting conducted from individual seats will still go a long way in creating a classroom community compared to having no Morning Meeting at all.
- Allow students to stand around the perimeter of your space if this is developmentally appropriate and your space allows for this modification.
- Adjust seating so students can see as many classmates as possible.
- Consider alternating between standing in a distanced circle and sitting at desks for different components. (Sharing and morning message could be seated components.)
- Select greetings and activities that do not require students to touch or to be in close proximity.
- Try alternative spaces for Morning Meeting, either indoors or outdoors (common area, multipurpose rooms, outdoor fields, blacktops, etc.).
- Review expectations and use Interactive Modeling to support student success.

Considerations for Virtual Platforms

The virtual classroom has become more common as schools adjust to keep students and staff safe and student learning going. Whether using an asynchronous virtual platform or a synchronous virtual platform to implement Morning Meeting, here are a few things to consider:

- Review, learn, and become familiar with your virtual platform and its features.
- Focus on the goals of Morning Meeting and plan components to meet the needs of students within the virtual platform.
- Use online tools like breakout rooms and screen sharing to support in scaffolding the meeting.
- Keep the classroom routine simple and predictable.
- Not everybody has to talk, but it's important that everyone can be heard and seen.
- It's okay if some elements/components are done individually and brought together for the whole group to enjoy and engage with at another time, as would be the case with asynchronous learning.
- Review expectations and use Interactive Modeling to support student success. Different skills are required to engage online, so be sure to teach these explicitly.

Additional Considerations

- Hybrid Classrooms: Many schools are returning to the school year using a hybrid model where some students participate virtually while others attend in person. It can be hard to be in two places at once! Therefore, you may only be able to do Morning Meeting with your students in person. You may then consider building in time once every week or two to have all students participate, either in person or virtually, in a Morning Meeting where all can be seen and heard. This opportunity will allow students to build a community with the students they will interact with on an immediate, day-to-day basis and start to connect with students they may potentially interact with as the school year progresses.
- Scaffolding Morning Meeting: In the following pages, we have provided ideas for each component for each grade level. Keep in mind that it is okay to begin with a few components before implementing all four. As you begin, you may consider doing a simple greeting or "greetivity" (combination of a greeting and activity such as clapping syllables to names) and then the message.
- Trauma: Teachers and students alike will be entering the school year with many emotions. They may feel fear about being safe in the classroom, anxiety about reengaging in person after learning online, and everything in between. This experience is new and unknown for all. For these reasons, students may be hesitant to participate fully. The teacher may want to do the heavy lifting at first so students can ease into the interactive components. It is also important to acknowledge the feelings students have while giving them space to forget about stressors and focus on creating joy and connection. During this time, it is important to lead with empathy and make adjustments for students and adults to participate as they are comfortable.

- Equity: Students will be returning to school having had varying experiences over the past few months. As we settle into the school year, it is important to use inclusive activities that allow each person to participate and establish a sense of belonging, significance, and fun. Morning Meeting is a perfect place for students to begin to be seen and heard for their own unique identity.
 - One key aspect that makes a person unique is their name. Students may be apprehensive to speak up on the first day, either in person or virtually, so many of the Day 1 greetings ask teachers to greet students by name. It is important to pronounce each person's name appropriately. Therefore, it may be a good idea to connect with each student individually prior to the start of the school year or the beginning of the day to learn their name.
 - Because Morning Meeting is a perfect place to begin helping students be seen and heard, we need to pay careful attention to what students see and hear. We do not want Morning Meeting to be a place where misbehaviors and names associated with those misbehaviors are pointed out. This is counterintuitive to the community we are trying to build. For this reason, we have included a daily focus. The daily focus highlights some skills to model and address as you set students up for success with Morning Meeting.
 - Students will come to Morning Meeting with different levels of self-control. Carefully observe student behavior and be aware of when to make adjustments. If you notice one or two students off task during the greeting, keep the focus on the goal for the day rather than these one or two distractions. However, if you notice student attention starting to wane and many students struggling to stay attentive, find a stopping point, read the message, and then find time later in the day to do a quick share or activity.

The First Ten Days of Fifth Grade Morning Meeting

Considerations

Developmental considerations for ten-year-olds:

- Need lots of outdoor play and physical challenges
- Listen well and enjoy talking and explaining; can appreciate others' perspectives
- Increasingly able to think abstractly; enjoying categorizing and logic; also good at memorizing
- Enjoy choral reading, poetry, plays, and singing
- Open to learning mediation and problem-solving skills; quick to anger and to forgive
- Developing a more mature sense of right and wrong
- Cooperative and flexible; do well with group activities and cooperative learning

Recommendations

In-Person	Virtual
New routines for social distancing should be taught through Interactive Modeling, starting with the “what” and “why.” If your space is large enough for a circle, consider using place markers for the spacing and model how to come to the spot. If students are wearing masks, it may take them some time to adjust to using the mask, so talking and hearing others may be hard at first. Ease into sharing so everyone can hear. Avoid voice-overs (repeating what students have just said). Don't look for perfection. Keep the goals in mind, while creating a daily routine that students will look forward to each day, and adjust as needed.	New routines for virtual interaction need to be taught and modeled, including clear expectations for muting/unmuting, video on/off, etc. Students will lean on you for direction and consistency. Simple rules such as “Only your face in the screen” and “Video on” will help build routines for participation. Consider a visual cue for students to mute or unmute. Tell students they will all be muted when they enter the meeting and explain how to unmute when it is their turn to talk. Don't look for perfection. Keep the goals in mind, while creating a daily routine that students will look forward to each day, and adjust as needed. When you make mistakes, students will see you as a learner, which helps build trust and mutual respect.

Week 1 Goals:

- Establish predictability and a sense of safety
- Create a sense of belonging and significance for students
- Encourage and share experiences and connections to create a welcoming and inclusive environment

Daily Focus: Simple interaction and participation in the Morning Meeting; introduce what a Morning Meeting is and the simple rules for the meeting, depending on whether it is in-person or virtual

Greeting: First and Last Name Introduction and Good Morning

In-Person	Virtual
Explain that today everyone will introduce themselves with the greeting “Good morning” and their first and last name. Model the introduction: “Hi, my name is ____.” Tell students to now all greet you by saying, “Good morning, ____.” Each student then introduces themselves with their first and last name, and classmates respond, “Good morning, ____.” If in a circle, go around the circle. If not, the teacher can call the order of who should go next. If students are wearing masks, remind them they may need to speak more loudly than usual so everyone can hear them.	Explain that today everyone will introduce themselves with the greeting “Good morning” and their first and last name. The teacher calls the order to ensure all are included.

Sharing: Around-the-Circle, “Something I did this summer . . .”

In-Person	Virtual
As you introduce sharing, remind students that each day they’ll be getting to know each other through sharing. They all have different feelings on the first day of school, especially the first day in school with masks, social distancing, etc., and those feelings can make it harder to think or share. To help students out with sharing, give these supports: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Give thinking time by having students give a thumbs up when ready. • Say it’s OK to say something someone else has said; it shows you have something in common. • Tell students if they pass, you’ll come back to them so everyone can learn more about each person. Explain that the around-the-circle sharing topic today is something they did this summer. Give thinking time and have all show a thumbs up when ready. Model the first sentence by sharing something you did this summer: “One thing I did this summer is . . .” Each person shares around the circle. You may need to call on the next person if students aren’t able to sit in a circle.	As you introduce sharing, remind students that each day they’ll be getting to know each other through sharing. Group activity: Just Like Me

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce Just Like Me as a way to have fun and continue to get to know each other. Begin by naming something you like, for example, “I like to swim.” Anyone who also likes to swim stands up and says, “Just like me!” and then sits back down. Continue with other statements. Try to use inclusive statements so that everyone gets a chance to stand, as well as more personal statements that help students connect with others. Remind students to notice who has something in common with them. Use statements that reflect what students have shared about themselves so far in the first week of school. When students are ready, let them lead the activity. Suggested categories: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Like to read • Enjoy video games • Like riding a bike • Like learning on the computer • Enjoy playing sports • Excited to be a fifth grader 	Introduce Just Like Me as a way to have fun and continue to get to know each other. Morning message:

In-Person	Virtual
Display the message on a whiteboard or screen prior to the meeting. At this time, read the message aloud to students for the first day. [Date] Happy First Day of School, Fifth Graders! I am so excited for this first day of school, even though it will be a little different for all of us. I’m looking forward to getting to know each of you and find out all you’ve learned in fourth grade. Have a great first day! [Closing and signature] Tell students that each day the message will be displayed for them to read when they enter the classroom. Daily Focus: Active listening and engaging with others while practicing responsibility

Greeting: First Name Wave

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce by connecting to yesterday. “We learned everyone’s names yesterday. Some of us will remember them, and some may need a reminder. Today, we’ll practice introducing ourselves like we don’t know each other’s names and then greet with a wave. Watch as I model.” Look to the next person in the circle. “Hi, I’m _____. What’s your name?” When the student responds, wave and say, “Good morning, _____.” The student waves and returns, “Good morning, _____.” If you are not sitting in a circle, you can name the next student, ensuring every student is greeted.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Introduce the greeting by connecting to yesterday. “Yesterday, we learned each other’s names, and today, we’ll greet each other in our group by saying good morning and waving. Watch how I model saying hello to one person.” Turn to the first student on the list and say, “Good morning, _____,” and wave. Then, have that student say “Good morning” back to you and wave. Remind students to unmute to speak and then mute again. Students continue greeting the next student on the list until everyone has been greeted.

Sharing: Around-the-Circle (Best Thing About First Day)

In-Person	Virtual
Today, each person is going to share one best thing about the first day of school. Do a quick review of yesterday and all the possibilities. Have students show a thumbs up when they are ready to share. Remind students it is OK to repeat what someone else said. If they need more time, they can pass and you’ll come back to them. Each person around the circle names one thing that they liked best about the first day. You can end with a focused “Who remembers” question based on categories of sharing. For example, “Who remembers someone who thought the best thing was something we did in the morning?”	Today each person is going to share one best thing about the first day of school. You can end with a focused question of “What did we have in common?” Ask for student volunteers to share a category they noticed. If students fit that category, they can do jazz hands or put a thumb up.

Group activity: Human Protractor

In-Person	Virtual
Students use their bodies to form a human-size protractor. Students can do this standing in their circle spots or by their desks if needed. Touching toes is zero, and standing with arms stretched straight up is 10. Model how to show zero, 5, and 10. Name different numbers between zero and 10 and have students move their body to show those numbers. Then move into simple number sentences, for example, what is 10 minus 9? Change the number range (0–30, 0–100, etc.) and name new numbers within that new range. Move into simple number sentences in the number range that is appropriate for the ability of your students. Finally, you could ask for volunteers to call out a number sentence.	While standing in their screen view, students use their bodies to form a human-size protractor. Have students take turns raising their hand and sharing what they're looking forward to learning.

Daily Focus: Making connections with others while practicing assertiveness

Greeting: Good Morning Peace Sign

In-Person	Virtual
Today, each student will greet the student next to them by showing a peace sign and saying, “Good morning, ____.” The student who was greeted will return the peace sign and say, “Good morning, ____.” This continues around the circle until all have been greeted. If students aren’t in a circle, help direct the next person to greet. Remind students to ask for names if they can’t recall them.	Today, have students greet each other around the screen by naming the person they are greeting. Remind students to unmute to greet and then mute again. Begin by greeting a student with “Good morning, ____” while showing a peace sign. Then give the student a chance to return the greeting. That student will choose someone else to greet. Consider asking those who have not been greeted to raise their hand or put a thumb up in the screen. Alternatively, post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Continue until every person has been greeted.

Sharing: Around-the-Circle (Favorite Game or Sport to Play)

In-Person	Virtual
Connect to the previous days’ sharing by stating, “When we each share, I notice that many of you have things in common. Today we’re going to practice using a hand signal to show we have something in common. For example, yesterday someone said they remembered being nervous the first day, and I felt that way, too. Watch what I would do to show I connect with that idea.” Model a silent hand signal, and ask what students noticed. “Now let’s try one. I enjoyed being in school again on the first day. Show the hand signal if you felt the same way.” Then, introduce the sharing by having students think about a favorite game or sport they like to play. Tell them to think about games and or sports they play at home or school, alone or with others, on devices or not, etc. Remind students to give a thumbs up when ready. Remind students they may have the same favorites as others. Tell students that if they like the same game or play the same sport, they should give the connection hand signal. Share your favorite game or sport, then move around the circle.	Connect to the previous days’ sharing by stating, “When we each share, I notice that many of you have things in common. Group activity: Step Into the Circle

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students that they will get to learn more about who has something in common with them by playing the game Step Into the Circle. Tell them that you'll name a characteristic that may or may not describe them. If it describes them, they'll stand up and take one step into the circle. Once in the circle, they can wave or say hi to others in the circle until you say "Step back." Explain that everyone will have a turn to step in. Begin by saying, "Step into the circle if you're the teacher." Stand up and take one step in. Wave to students, then say "Step back" and take a step back. Name several categories that may describe your fifth graders: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Step into the circle if you have a pet • Step into the circle if you rode a bike to school • Step into the circle if you have a sibling • Step into the circle if you have traveled out of the state • Step into the circle if you are 10 years old Continue to do several rounds, making sure everyone has had a chance to be in the circle.	Tell students that they will get to learn more about who has something in common with them by playing the game Step Into the Circle. Daily Focus: Continue to make connections with others while practicing cooperation

Greeting: Language Greeting

In-Person	Virtual
Today, have students greet others around the circle using a language other than English. You can choose a language spoken by students in your classroom or one that is spoken in your school or community. Some examples are: Spanish: Buenos días French: Bonjour Hebrew: Shalom Haitian Creole: Bonjou Start with picking one language and modeling the greeting: “Bonjou, ____.” Continue having students greet each other around the circle. If students aren’t in a circle, help direct the next person to greet. Remind students to ask for names if they can’t recall them.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Today, have students greet others around the screen using a language other than English. You can choose a language spoken by students in your classroom or one that is spoken in your school or community. Some examples are: Spanish: Buenos días French: Bonjour Hebrew: Shalom Haitian Creole: Bonjou Start with picking one language and modeling the greeting: “Bonjou, ____.” Have students greet each other in the order listed until every student has been greeted.

Sharing: Around-the-Circle (Favorite Meal)

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce this sharing by having students think about their favorite meal. Tell students to think about meals they eat at home, on holidays, or at school. State they can name a favorite meal of the day (breakfast, etc.) or a specific meal (lasagna, etc.). Remind students to give a thumbs up when ready. To help focus listening, ask a few “who remembers” questions at the end and have students point to students who match that description.	Introduce this sharing by having students think about their favorite meal. Group activity: Heads or Tails

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce this activity by showing how you can flip a coin and guess if it will land with the heads up or tails up. For this activity, students will predict if you will flip heads or tails by putting their hands on either their heads or hips. Engage students to think about probability to help determine if they should predict head or tails. Once they commit to their guess, flip the coin. If they predicted correctly, they remain standing. If they predicted incorrectly, they sit down. Keep doing flips until there is one person left. Do a few rounds if time. Use this activity to talk about sportsmanship and empathy.	Introduce this activity by showing how you can flip a coin and guess if it will land with the heads up or tails up. Daily Focus: Making simple decisions that lead to the rule-making process

Greeting: Pick One Greeting

In-Person	Virtual
Remind students that they have practiced four different greetings this week: wave, good morning, peace sign, and language greeting. Tell students that they will pick which one they want to use to greet another person in the classroom today. Explain that you'll talk about making decisions today, and this is the first decision they will be making. Model the four greetings and have students give a thumbs up when they're ready. Tell students that when they greet a person, that person will respond with the same greeting, then will turn and greet the next student using the greeting they selected. Remind students to ask if they don't recall names. Continue around the circle until everyone has been greeted.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Sharing: Weekend Share

In-Person	Virtual
Students should think about what they like to do on the weekend and why. Talk about the challenges of current times and explain that students could choose things they like to do now or hope to do again in the future. Introduce a sentence stem: "I like to ____ on the weekends because ____." Have students signal they are ready to share with a thumbs up. Have students share around the circle or room. Remind students to use the connection sign if they also like doing similar activities on weekends.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will share. Group activity: Group Counting

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students the goal of this activity is to practice assertiveness to achieve a goal. You will name a number, and students will count from 1 to the named number by saying the next number, but only one person can say a number at a time. If two or more people say a number at the same time, the counting goes back to 1. Start the game with a smaller number. Try a few rounds.	Tell students the goal of this activity is to practice assertiveness to achieve a goal. Week 2 Goals:

- Continue to build and foster connections and a sense of safety
- Strengthen and support established relationships
- Nurture the positive community through building a continued repertoire of shared experiences

Daily Focus: Continue to build a sense of positive community while slowly increasing the challenge by teaching and practicing responsibility to participate and include others

Greeting: Good Morning to Anyone Who . . .

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students this greeting is like the activity you did last week, Step Into the Circle. You will name categories that may describe the students. If the category describes them, they step into the circle, say “Good morning” to others in the circle, and then step back. Begin by naming categories that help reflect the first week of school, and end with one that will ensure everyone is included. For example: “Good morning to anyone who . . .” <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Met someone new last week • Was glad to be back in school • Learned something new last week • Is a fifth grader 	Tell students this greeting is like the activity you did last week, Step Into the Circle. Sharing: Partner Share (Place You Like to Visit)

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce the idea of partner shares as a way to talk to one other student on a topic. Today’s topic is to share about a place you like to visit. Tell students that due to current circumstances, they may not be able to go this place, but they can share the place and why they like to visit or hope to visit. Remind students to stay on the topic and give time for each person to share while safely distancing. Assign partnerships.	Introduce the idea of partner shares as a way to talk to one other student on a topic. Today’s topic is to share about a place you like to visit. Group activity: Shake It Down

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students that this activity will get them moving while counting. Have students stand and show how they will first shake their right hand, then left hand, then right foot, then left foot while they chant the numbers, and then say “Cut”: “1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16!” (Shake right hand sixteen times and then repeat with left hand, right foot, and left foot.) “Cut!” (Pretend to slice or cut right hand down on left palm.) “1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8!” (Shake right hand eight times and then repeat with left hand, right foot, and left foot.) “Cut!” (Pretend to slice or cut right hand down on left palm.) Repeat the chant and actions, cutting down to 4, then 2, and then 1. “Shake it down!” (Shake whole body once from top to bottom.)	Tell students that this activity will get them moving while counting. Daily Focus: Continue to add challenge while teaching and practicing assertiveness and empathy

Greeting: Good Morning Pinkie Wave

In-Person	Virtual
Students will say “Good morning, _____” to a student next to them and do a wave with their pinkie finger. As students pass the wave around the circle, use reinforcing language to support their making eye contact and using names or asking for reminders.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Students will unmute and say “Good morning, _____” to a student in the screen and do a wave with their pinkie finger. Sharing: Popcorn Share (Favorite Snack)

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students to think of their favorite snack. Brainstorm a few, including some healthy options. Have students show they’re ready to share by giving a thumbs up. Describe a popcorn share by connecting to popping corn—once a kernel is popped, it changes from a seed to a fluffy piece of popcorn. When they share today, they will pop by standing up and saying “pop.” The trick is that only one person can share at a time, so if two stand up to share, they both sit down again. If only one person stands, they say their snack and stay standing. At that time, anyone else who has the same favorite snack stands up, says “pop pop,” and stays standing (here, multiple people can pop up). Continue until everyone is standing. If there’s time, repeat with another topic to share. Engage students in a discussion regarding empathy and assertiveness. “What did you notice happened when someone made a mistake?” “How did it feel to try to be the first to stand up, but then two of you stood and had to sit down?”	Tell students to think of their favorite snack. Group activity: Do What I Said, Not What I Say

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students that this activity is to get them moving while NOT following directions. First, you'll give a direction and students WON'T follow it. Then you'll give a second direction, and they'll follow the FIRST direction. The pattern will continue. Possible directions could be: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Stand up 2. Touch your knees 3. Pat your back 4. Turn around 5. Cross your arms 6. Touch your head 7. Sit down 8. Daily Focus: Continue to add challenge while applying academic skills in the Morning Meeting

Greeting: Alliterative Name Greeting

In-Person	Virtual
Have students think of a positive adjective that can describe them and begins with the first letter of their first name (for example, “Savvy Sierra”). Students pick an alliteration for their greeting and give a thumbs up when they’re ready. Tell students it’s OK if someone picks the same adjective. Begin by saying, “Good morning everyone, I’m [your alliteration].” All students respond, “Good morning, [your alliteration].” Continue around the circle until everyone has been greeted.	Post or share a list indicating the order in which students will be greeted. Have students think of a positive adjective that can describe them and begins with the first letter of their first name (for example, “Savvy Sierra”). Group activity: Spelling Karate

In-Person	Virtual
Tell students this activity will get them moving by doing safe karate moves. Model that for tall letters (all capitals, b, f, l, etc.) they will chop up with their hand. For small letters (lowercase c, e, n, etc.), they will chop forward. For fall letters (lowercase j, g, y, etc.) they will kick forward. First, practice by going through the alphabet. Next, pick simple words to spell. Do this spelling bee style—word, spell, word.	Tell students this activity will get them moving by doing safe karate moves. [Closing and signature]

If students are using a platform where they can share their ideas to the question in writing, have them enter their ideas into a chat or shared document. Use this to create a digital resource for students. If they verbally brainstorm, use your digital platform to create a common document from their ideas.

Daily Focus: Apply and practice the classroom rules and targeted social and emotional skills in a fun and appropriately challenging meeting

Greeting: Match My Voice Greeting

In-Person	Virtual
As you may have discussed while creating rules this week, one thing fifth graders need to remember is their tone of voice. This greeting allows students to practice matching their voice to another student. Students greet the person next to them with a “Good morning” greeting in a voice of their choice. The next student returns the greeting, matching the voice. Continue around the circle. Engage in a discussion of how everyone said the same words, but the different voices changed how the message felt.	As you may have discussed while creating rules this week, one thing fifth graders need to remember is their tone of voice. Sharing: Something That Makes You Smile

In-Person	Virtual
Have students think of something that makes them smile just to think about it. Start with your own example. Give students time to think and show they’re ready with a thumbs up. Share around the circle or the room with teacher direction. After sharing, connect the rule-making process with students’ feelings. The goal would be to have the warm, happy feeling that they shared. Group activity: Captain’s Coming

In-Person	Virtual
This activity gets everyone moving. You (the captain) stand facing the class (the crew) as if they’re all on a ship. When the captain calls an order, the crew has to follow it as quickly as possible. There are several actions to teach; start with a few and add more as you do this more often. A visual cue of directions is recommended. “Captain’s Coming” – Crew stands at attention with a salute and all say “Aye, aye, captain!” “Bow” – Move one step forward “Stern” – Move one step back “Starboard” – Move to the right “Port” – Move to the left “Swab the deck” – Pretend to mop the deck. “Walk the plank” – Take three giant steps forward “Hardtack for dinner” – Pretend they are gagging as if throwing up Call out the orders, mixing up as you go. An option is to have a student be the captain. This activity can connect with the rule-making process and the importance of everyone trying their best to follow the rules for a safe and joyful classroom.	Students will stand in their screen view for this activity. Daily Focus: Continue to build connections to strengthen the community while practicing empathy and responsibility

Greeting: Invisible Ball Toss

In-Person	Virtual
Students greet another student across the room and then pretend to throw an invisible ball to them. The other student pretends to catch the ball and then greets that student in return. Continue until everyone has been greeted. So students know who hasn't been greeted, have every student start out standing and then sit down after they've been greeted.	Students greet another student in the screen and then pretend to throw an invisible ball to them. Sharing: Partner Share (Ways You Like to Help Others)

In-Person	Virtual
Introduce the idea of students being responsible to help in the class or help others, whether at school, at home, or in the community. Every positive community depends on each person contributing. Assign partners, and have students pair up at a safe distance to share how they like to help others. Group activity: Number Freeze

In-Person	Virtual
One student will say a number between 1 and the total number of students. Students start by sitting (either in a circle or at their desks) and, without talking, will either stand or remain seated to try to match the number of students standing with the number called. When the caller thinks the number is correct, they say, "Everybody freeze!" They then count all the students standing to see if the number is correct. Try a few rounds. Engage in a discussion of how the rules helped them be successful in this game.	One student will say a number between 1 and the total number of students. Students start out with video on and will either leave their video on or turn it off as they try to match the total number of videos on with the number called, all without talking. When the caller thinks the number is correct, they say, "Everybody freeze!" They then count all the students with videos on to see if the number is correct. Try a few rounds. Morning message:

In-Person	Virtual
Display the message on a whiteboard or screen prior to the meeting. [Date] Dear Fifth Graders, We have learned so much about each other and now have our rules to support our hopes and dreams. / We all are responsible for following the rules so everyone can learn. // Think about how you are responsible for following the rules in different places. /// What happens when you make a mistake and don't follow a rule? How can you help each other follow all the rules? Be ready to share, [Closing and signature] Divide the class up into four groups by proximity. Today, they'll read aloud with a growing choral reading. The first group will read together aloud until /. Then the second group joins in until //. The third group will join in until ///. Everyone continues reading to the end. Engage in a discussion about responsibility and how the rules are designed for everyone to do their part.	Display the message on the screen prior to the meeting. [Date] Dear Fifth Graders, We have learned so much about each other and now have our rules to support our hopes and dreams. / We all are responsible for following the rules so everyone can learn. // Think about how you are responsible for following the rules in different places. /// What happens when you make a mistake and don't follow a rule?
