

Addressing Middle School Challenges With Responsive Advisory Meeting

Suitable for Educators 5–8

Strategies and practices for using Responsive Advisory Meetings to support the unique needs of adolescent students

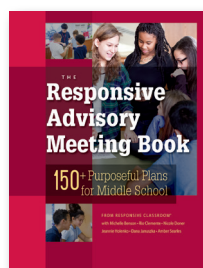

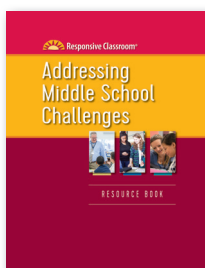

Middle school students are in a period of tumultuous growth and change. In this one-day workshop, deepen your understanding of the five major challenges that middle school students face during adolescent development. Take a detailed look at The Responsive Advisory Meeting Book to learn about how Responsive Advisory Meetings help meet the developmental needs of middle school students.

Participants will...

- Examine specific challenges that are unique to middle school students, such as:
 - Academics
 - Self-esteem
 - Fitting in
 - Peer pressure
 - Disappointment/rejection
- Deepen their understanding of the reflect and recalibrate purpose of Responsive Advisory Meeting
- Increase their knowledge of the role and responsibilities of being an advisor

Resources included

- Addressing Middle School Challenges Resource Book
- The Responsive Advisory Meeting Book
- Investing Students in the Rules Planning Guide (digital resource)

“This was a very informative and practical workshop.”

—Elizabeth, middle school world language teacher

“[The presenter] answered all of my questions, was very approachable -and modeled what I hope my classes will be like.”

—Jenni, grade 8 teacher

Register at: responsiveclassroom.org/courses/one-day-workshops/

