

Addressing Middle School Challenges With Responsive Advisory Meeting

One-day workshop

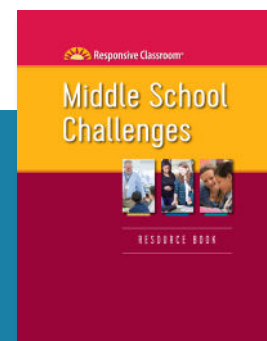

Suitable for educators of grades 6–8

Use Responsive Advisory Meeting to help middle school students navigate the unique challenges of adolescence.

Middle school students are in a period of tumultuous growth and change. In this one-day workshop, deepen your understanding of the major challenges middle school students face during adolescent development. Then, take a detailed look at how educators can use Responsive Advisory Meeting to support the particular needs of middle school students.

Participants will:

- Examine the academic, social, and emotional challenges that are specific to middle school students
- Deepen their understanding of how Responsive Advisory Meeting can be used to help students reflect and recalibrate
- Understand the role and responsibilities of being an advisor
