

Special Area Teachers

One-day workshop

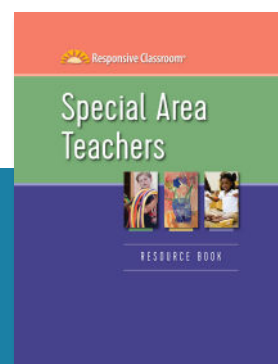

Suitable for educators of grades K–6

Apply Responsive Classroom strategies to your unique, constantly changing environment.

Special area teachers face the challenge of working with students from various grade levels, in small windows of time, often with an entire week between classes. In this one-day workshop, explore how you can support students in a dynamic learning environment. Discover how core Responsive Classroom practices can be used to create the opportunities—and address the challenges—that are unique to special area settings.

Participants will:

- Identify developmental patterns in students across grade levels
- Learn to apply core Responsive Classroom practices in time-pressured special area classrooms
- Explore and generate strategies for effectively managing a learning environment that serves many students across a wide range of grade levels
